

How PensionDanmark processes your personal data

When you are employed by a company covered by a collective agreement which makes you a member of PensionDanmark, your employer must pay pension contributions on your behalf throughout your employment. To this end, your employer will provide us with personal data.

Establishing your pension scheme

Your employer provides us with the following personal data about you:

- Name
- CPR number
- Pay period for the pension contribution made
- Amount of pension contribution
- The collective agreement covering you

When we receive this information, we will establish your pension scheme with the relevant insurances, healthcare scheme and pension savings. Your employer will provide us with the information on a monthly basis so that we can register the contributions made to your pension scheme. To see your pension scheme, log on to pension.dk.

Managing your pension scheme

PensionDanmark needs your personal data to manage the collectively agreed labour market pension schemes.

Benefits of membership

As a member of PensionDanmark, you have a first claim to some of PensionDanmark Ejendomme's rented homes, and subject to your consent, we will send you an e-mail whenever a relevant unit, based on the information you have provided regarding your age, marital status, current residence, etc., becomes available.

Investment and rental properties

PensionDanmark owns a number of investment and rental properties. Some of these properties are let out and others sold to private individuals. PensionDanmark receives and processes personal data in connection with letting and selling properties. Reference is made to Summary 4, which provides further details on PensionDanmark's processing of personal data for these purposes.

Statistics, board reports, etc.

PensionDanmark is required to inform its Board of Directors about the management of the pension scheme, and we are subject to a range of statutory requirements, for instance that the company's funds must be sufficient to cover the benefits payable to our members. For this reason, pension scheme statistics are prepared on an ongoing basis.

Your personal data are included – in anonymous form – in board reports and statistics. If, for instance, we are to inform the Board of Directors of the number of pension scheme members, you will be included in that number.

We obtain your personal data from you and others

If you claim benefits under your pension scheme, we will need more personal data from you. If, for instance, you claim a lump sum on critical illness, we will need information about your diagnosis (health information), but we will ask for your permission to process the data.

We disclose your personal data to others

We provide your CPR number to the Civil Register in order that your name and address may be updated, for instance if you move. If the Civil Register has it on record that you are married, we will receive information about your spouse on your death so that we may pay out the death benefit as quickly as possible. We will also disclose information about your pension scheme to the Danish Tax Agency. We are required by law to do so.

We will sometimes ask third parties for assistance, for instance with making services available to you on our website. Such third parties may also gain access to relevant personal data about you.

Summaries of how we process your pension information

We have drawn up four summaries to provide you with a complete overview of the processing of your personal data:

2. Which personal data we collect from you and others and the purpose of our processing

We are bound by a duty of confidentiality and treat all personal data as confidential and in accordance with applicable personal data protection legislation and other legislation.

How long do we store your personal data?

We will keep and protect your personal data for the duration of your membership with us. Only selected PensionDanmark employees can access them as required.

We only store personal data for as long as we need them to manage the collectively agreed labour market pension schemes.
